The Observer.

The Easter festival emphasizes the Christian hope of immortality, and assurance of its reality. Dr. Osler, tells us that aside from the select company of the spiritual few there are none who give the subject any real attention, or who, if they do give it any thought, come to the conclusion that there is no reality in the life hereafter, and that it as is undesirable as it is unreal. But it is easy to imagine, as Elijah did, that the company of the spiritual is smaller and more select that it really is. The fact that one is apparently absorbed in the ordinary cares and duties of life and that he does not wear his inmost thoughts and feelings on his sleeve, is not a very conclusive indication that he has no thought or desire for the life immortal. Dr. Osler states that he has careful records of about five hundred death beds, studied particularly with reference to the sensations of the dying. "Ninety suffered bodily pain or distress of one sort or another, eleven showed mental apprehension, two positive terror, one expressed spiritual exaltation, one bitter remorse. The great majority gave no sign one way or the other; like their birth, their death was a sleep and a forgetting. The Preacher was right: in this matter man hath no preeminence over the beast,—'as the one dieth so dieth the other'." Dr. Osler's inference is that the great majority of these persons were wholly without thought or concern for the hereafter———certainly a hasty and sweeping inference. Who can say how far this absence of expression was due to utter indifference, or how far it was due to habitual reserve or to prostration of the organs of sense and of the brain?

One's attitude towards the question of immortality must rest in the end upon one's sense of the value of human personality and life. He who has no sense of what is divine and sacred and can see in a human life nothing but a physical organism, will very naturally give no thought to a life hereafter, or else will regard such a life as needless and undesirable. Granting the premises, such an attitude and conclusion will be wholly warranted. The whole point at issue turns upon whether our conception of human life is spiritual or unspiritual. If one has no conviction of the divine sacredness of the human life and personality, no possible array of arguments will have any power to persuade him of the necessity or reasonableness of a life hereafter. A conviction of the divine worth of humanity must precede any real faith in immortality. If that conviction be wanting, no amount of scientific reasoning can implant it in the heart. If it be present, it will transform one's entire scientific view, and will itself prove to be an inexpugnable fact of which science must take account A true belief in immortality must therefore in the end rest upon a basis of spiritual vision. Science is powerless to lay or implant this foundation. But science is equally powerless to uproot and overturn it when once it has been laid.

The final examinations of this year's senior class in the high school were completed to-day. Mr. Hallman performed his part of the work on Saturday. The class is composed of the following members: Lena Bair, Max Balcom, Margaret Cummings, Edith Heilman, Edward Hughes, Myrtle Lloyd, Christina MacDonald, Winnie Shearer, and Daniel Welsh. The complete result of the examinations is not yet available, and will be announced later. The date for commencement is Tuesday, May 16th.

Newton Cemetery.

The Emporium Cemetery Association, recently chartered, are arranging with the Borough authorities to construct a water line, in order that lot owners may not be compelled to carry water up the steep hill. It is the desire of the Association to solicit subscriptions from the owners of lots, in order to make many improvements in the "Silent City" It is earnestly hoped that all owners of lots will aid in this good work. Newton Cemetery has been too long neglected and it is high time our citizens took the matter in hand.

No Boys in Bowling Alleys,

Boys under 16 years of age must hereafter keep out of public pool, billiard, bowling and ten pin rooms, the Governor having approved the act which imposes a fine of $10 to $100 on the proprietor of any such place who permits a boy under 16 years to be present therein, even though he does not play the game.

It is said that this will work a hardship, as most of the boys now engaged in setting pins in bowling alleys are under the age of 16.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list and testimonials.

A Visit to Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

Masters Clyde Thomas, Mack Halderman, Rodney Shives, George Fetter, Lewis Leutze and Ned Viner, the six banner scholars of Honorable Josiah Howard's Sunday School class, of Emmanuel Episcopal church, where his guests at the Lochiel Hotel, Harrisburg, for several days last week, and it is safe to say, that they were the merriest and most interested, if not the most important party which visited the State Capital during the closing days of the Legislature

Immediately upon their arrival they proceeded to deplete Harrisburg's supply of peanuts, that the State's pets—the tame and fascinating little squirrels, which overrun the grounds of the great State Capital—might be fed in a manner to do credit to Cameron county. The border of peanut shells, which marked their way through the grounds, testified to everlasting dyspepsia from over-eating among the innocent little squirrels—but it was a glowing tribute to the generosity of Cameron county. The freedom of the great Capital of the Commonwealth, was their,s as well as the freedom of the grounds about it, and although neither peanuts nor plums were offered to the Members, still many an august lawmaker and shining light of the Keystone state felt the better for coming in contact with six wide-awake American boys, paying their first visit to the StateCapitol, and the boys were allowed to roam at will throughout the enormous unfinished building from the flag room to the great rotunda underneath the mighty dome. They were likewise privileged to visit both houses of Legislature while in session and behold the man, who said, "Thou shalt not smoke cigarettes," and "thou shalt not play truant at school." They were given a fine ride to Harrisburg's reservoir for its water supply, situated upon a high elevation outside of the city and commanding a most comprehensive view of the surrounding country, with the great dome of the Capitol looming up over everything and the beautiful Rockville bridge spanning the river in the distance. Their visit ended with a trip to the world-famous battlefield of Gettysburg, under the guidance of Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Ross W. Barrows, of Lock Haven, who were also Mr. Howard's guests for the close of the Legislature. The boys were driven over the greatest battlefield of the war of the Rebellion, and the different points of interest explained to them by a competent guide. They returned home on Friday, voting the trip the finest of their lives and Mr. Howard the prince of entertainers. The boys' gentlemanly conduct throughout the trip, was a credit to Cameron county.

THE PLATFORM.

We, the Republicans of Cameron county, point with pride to the grand vote accorded our party, represented by our popular President, Theodore Roosevelt, whose administration has our most profound admiration.

The honest and manly administration of Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker meets with our unqualified endorsement and we hereby tender him our thanks for his approval of the act taxing State lands, introduced by Hon. Josiah Howard.

Our United States Senators, Hon. Boies Penrose and Hon. P. C. Knox, and Congressman Hon. S R. Dresser, who faithfully and cheerfully rendered our people invaluable aid, especially the old soldiers over whose interests they are constantly watchful, are entitled to our grateful rememberance and endorsement.

Our able Representative at Harrisburg, Hon. Josiah Howard, has our thanks for the efficient work accomplished, not only for Cameron county but the entire State, by his securing the enactment of a law taxing the lands owned by the State of Pennsylvania, thereby carrying out the platform adopted by the Republican Convention of Cameron county in 1904, and thus saving annually hundreds of dollars to our schools and road funds.

The ticket this day nominated stands for true Republicanism, strict business principles, "open door" and honest dealings with all, by all and from all.

We renew our promise and demand that the remaining unseated lands pay their just share of taxes, thus relieving the farmer, laboring man and mechanic from an unjust tax in many instances.

The Republicans of Cameron county sacredly pledge the taxpayers of this county to conduct the affairs of the county economically, see that taxation is equalized and the public business conducted in an open manner; taxes promptly collected and honestly disbursed. We promise a business administration of county affairs and close attention to the duties of the several offices under our control, thereby aiding in the proper administration of same, thus reducing the enormous county debt.

Great Perils in Breaking "Landings"

Sure Death to the Men Unable to Jump Quick Enough.

Pennsylvania woodsmen are now engaged in the most hazardous task of their calling—the breaking of "landings." Great piles of barkless sticks, seemingly eager to tumble over each other into the turbulent driving streams, wait only for the anchor log to be loosed and the whole lot go crunching, rolling, plunging down the precipitucus bank into the water. And pity the luckless chap who is so unfortunate as not to have leaped quick enough or far enough to escape the merciless timbers in their flight! Many a poor fellow has gone to his death between the launching fleet of timbers, his body to be found mangled and crushed miles down the stream, where there is a pocket and the logs have come to a sudden stop in an eddy, carrying the driver's body to shore.

Only a few day ago, while breaking a landing on Kettle creek, a driver named Shoemaker, in attempting to release his cant-hook from a log, was flung as if from a catapult into the stream amid the whirling sticks, but by an almost superhuman effort he managed to fight his way to the top of the sticks and was rescued. A broken "landing" acts much as does a flock of sheep when released from bondage, each one seems anxious to outstrip the other in leaping to freedom.

The season's cut going into the Williamsport boom this spring will probably not exceed 50,000,000 feet, the smallest cut in 25 years. The loss of the 15,000 logs, rushed into Pine creek last week, and carried down into Chesapeake bay, meant a considerable loss in profit and labor to the saw mill men of that city. But the saw mill industry is no longer being reckoned with to any great extent in Williamsport The city's industries have taken on such a diversity of character that whether the saw mills are running or idle they cut but a small figure in the local labor-employing market. This summer, it is said, will be the "clean-up" year for the Emery Lumber company in the Loyalneck region. The two mills of this company are in the mouth of Loyalneck creek, down which the logs float from the hills of Sullivan county. The Central Lumber company of Pennsylvania with mills at Laquin, several years ago, acquired a big slice of the remaining timber in Sullivan county, while on the other side of the county C. L. Jones, working north from Eagles Mere toward the 'Sock region, got hold on a fine acreage of hemlock and hardwood, and a sturdy mill built at the forest's edge transforms the stock into lumber right on the spot.

An extension of the Eagles Mere narrowgauge railroad has been pushed through to the Sours mill, thus giving easy shipments over the Williamsport & North Branch and Philadelphia & Reading to Philadelphia.

Up the river a new chopping has been begun in the Hammerely Fork region, but these logs will be transported over the Goodyear railroad, the Buffalo & Susquehanna, to Cross Fork and Austin. Most of the 50,000,000 feet of logs coming into the Williamsport boom this summer will be out of Pine creek, though a goodly number will come from the river's headwaters at Cherry Tree, making the voyage one of nearly 130 miles to the mills. —Lock Haven Republican.

Another Business Block.

Mrs. M. A. Rockwell is a firm believer in Emporium and while she has already invested quite a snug sum of money in real estate is now arranging to back up her confidence in Greater Emporium by contracting with Mr. Kriner to erect another business and residence block, on corner of Fourth and Cherry street, east of post-office. The block will contain two store rooms on first floor, with flats for two families. Would that others would manifest a little more enterprise, while there is such a crying demand for houses. Fifty dwelling houses could be leased to-day if erected.

A Little Girl's Trouble.

My little girl, five years old, was doctored for several months for bladder trouble but without success. She was very bad and caused us much anxiety. Finally we put aside the doctors' medicines and tried Thompson's Barosma or Kidney and Liver cure. Five or six bottles made a complete cure and she is now a sound, healthy girl. N. F. Leslie, Oil City, Pa. For Sale by R. C. Dodson.

A Runaway.

While stopping a runaway team of Frank Craven's yesterday afternoon on the North Creek road, Norman Clark had his shoulder thrown out of joint. He was taken to the Ridgway hospital Wednesday evening, where the shoulder was pulled into place. Mr. Craven was also injured.

MOBS HEMMED IN THE POLICE

Strike Sympathizers Clashed with Chicago Policemen and Several Were Hurt.

ONE MAN'S SKULL WAS BROKEN

Pedestrians Had to Stand the Jamming and Shoving Until Police Reinforcements Dispersed or Arrested Members of the Mob.

Chicago, April 14.—Montgomery Ward & Co. made deliveries yesterday with non-union teamsters. The service was interrupted by strikers and their sympathizers, who blocked the streets, making it almost an impossibility for the caravans under the protection of platoons of police to pass through the streets. In several instances the crowds became so demonstrative that it was necessary for the police to use their clubs and several of the disturbers were hurt in clashes with policemen.

Charles Stubner, a non-union driver for a piano house, was the cause of a clash between police and strike sympathizers in State street. He was assaulted while delivering a load of piano stools to Montgomery Ward & Co. Dragged from his wagon, he showed fight and was pounced upon. Policemen went to the rescue and the man's assailants fled. They were overtaken near Madison and State streets, the heart of the shopping district.

A mob hemmed in the police and in a minute the whole thoroughfare was blocked with people and teams. A coal wagon forcing its way through the crowd tipped over a cab, throwing out a woman passenger. The crowd surged up and down, trampling each other and knocking down a dozen women.

Two police officers were injured, one receiving a scalp wound and the other a cut on the shoulder. William Styles, one of the attacking mob, was struck on the head and his skull was fractured.

Fully 5,000 persons were in the crowd, many of them women and children. Pedestrians who found themselves caught in the disorder were helpless for a time. A few were able to get into stores adjacent, but the majority had to stand the jamming and shoving until police reinforcements dispersed or arrested members of the mob.

GRAND JURY INDICTED FOUR

The Men Were Charged with Obstructing a Marshal.

Chicago, April 14.—Four men, three of whom are employes of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, meat packers, and one an attorney for that corporation, were named in an indictment returned Thursday afternoon by the federal grand jury which is investigating the alleged beef trust.

It is charged that the four men obstructed Deputy Marshal A. A. Bach in efforts to serve a subpena on Edwin B. Fish, a clerk employed by Schwarzschild & Sulzberger. Fish recently returned from Canada.

The men indicted are: Joseph Weissenbach, attorney for Schwarzschild & Sulzberger; B. S. Cusey, traffic manager for the company; George D. Hopkins, auditor for the company; Leo S. Joseph, employed in the provision department of the concern.

The four men were taken into custody shortly after the return of the indictments and were released in bonds of $1,000 in each case.

Decided Against the Banks.

Indianapolis, April 14.—Judge Anderson, of the federal court, yesterday upheld the appointment of the Indiana Trust Co. as the trustee of the E. T. Kenney Co., of this city, and held the combination of creditors for the control of judicial proceedings in their own interests to be clearly against public policy. The opinion was the result of a fierce fight between the Indiana Trust Co. and 118 banks in all parts of the country which were creditors of the insolvent E. T. Kenney Co.

Dusky Desperadoes Were Recaptured.

Pittsburg, April 14.—Charles Jackson and Albert Pander, colored, aged 16 and 17 years respectively, yesterday attacked John White, a guard at the Morganza reformatory, with an ax, dangerously wounding him. They then disarmed the guard and escaped. Jackson and Pander were captured last evening near Bridgeville.

Peasants' Revolt Spreads.

St. Petersburg, April 14.—Dispatches received here from Tiflis say the peasant agitation is spreading widely through the Caucasus and that the disturbers are forcing all peasants to participate in the pillaging and destruction of schools and public buildings by threats of bodily injury.

Preparing for a Long Siege.

Tokio, April 14.—It is reported here that the Russians are reinforcing the garrison at Vladivostok and that the work of strengthing the fortress is progressing constantly.

Former Boer General Goes to Prison.

Chicago, April 14.—A man who said he was the former Boer General W. J. De Jough was yesterday sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge Barnes. The prisoner was arraigned under the name of Henry Marshall to answer to a charge of passing worthless checks.

Choked to Death on a Free Lunch.

Janesville, Wis., April 14.—William Conway, aged 65 years, last night choked to death on a piece of ham taken from a free lunch in a saloon. He was ejected from the saloon when dying, it is said.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

Officers of a "Get-Rich-Quick" Concern Depart—Hundreds of People Lost Money.

Kansas City, Mo., April 13.—The "American Mercantile Association" has closed its office here and this notice has been posted on the door: "Good-bye, suckers; good-bye." The whereabouts of the officers of the association is not known. The company's head office was at St. Joseph, Mo., and from there a notice has been sent out to subscribers announcing the suspension as follows:

"The officers of the American Mercantile Association take this means to announce to you that the business of said corporation has been suspended and that it will be unable to carry out its contract with you."

When this notice was received by the Kansas City subscribers, the majority of whom are laboring people, they flocked to the concern's offices. Many gave pitiable evidence of the distress they suffered in the loss of their hard-earned money.

The subscribers had agreed to pay one dollar a week for 80 weeks on the promise that they were to receive $100 at the end of that period. Many working girls had been making payments for months past. One woman had paid $7.50 a week for 66 weeks and expected soon to realize $720.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 13.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Henry Breuninger, president of the American Mercantile Co., which collapsed here. L. H. Miles, secretary, and M. N. Nordean, field manager, have disappeared. Two thousand people here lost $30,000 by the failure.

ASKS FOR HIS REMOVAL.

Justice Hooker Is Declared by Counsel for an Investigating Committee to be Unfit to Wear the Ermine.

Albany, N. Y., April 13.—The removal of Justice Warren B. Hooker from the supreme court bench of the state of New York, by a concurrent resolution of the senate and assembly was the conclusion drawn from the evidence given before the assembly judiciary committee and presented to the committee of inquiry in an argument yesterday by ex-Deputy Attorney General Coman, counsel for the committee of inquiry. Coman read his conclusions of fact, embracing six different postoffice appointments—of Frank P. Ball, Maurice Hooker, Ora Caldwell, Thomas O'Neill, Minerva Jeffrey and Katherine Clark; the Dunkirk postoffice leases and the judgment against the city of Dunkirk.

In each of these cases Mr. Coman declared that the conduct of Justice Hooker was immoral and tended to submit the administration of justice by Judge Hooker on the bench to contempt and disgrace.

Frick Intends to Probe Deep.

New York, April 13.—A complete record of all the financial transactions of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, its relations to other corporations and a full list of the society's employes, including all its officers, together with a statement of the salaries and emoluments received by them, is asked of the society's president, James W. Alexander, in a letter sent to him by Henry C. Frick, chairman of the investigating committee appointed by the directors. The letter to Mr. Alexander was approved at a meeting of the investigating committee, at which Messrs. Harriman, Bliss, Ives, Ingalls and Frick were present.

A "Black Hand" Outrage.

New York, April 13.—Because he had not heeded letters demanding money, which bore the signature of the mysterious "Black Hand society," a bomb was exploded under the house of Pietro Caciozza, an Italian barber, in Brooklyn yesterday. The stoop of the house was wrecked, but Caciozza, his wife and their one child escaped without injury. It is said that the writers are known and arrests probably will be made soon. Three letters were sent to Caciozza. In them he was ordered to pay $500 to the society and was warned that his wife and child would be murdered if the demand was refused.

A Victory for Radicals.

Lansing, Mich., April 13.—The radical primary reform element in the lower house of the Michigan legislature won a victory last night in substituting the Dickinson, state-wide, primary reform bill for the Double-Ivory local option measure which had been made the special order for yesterday. The Double-Ivory bill provides for local option in regard to primaries for elections in the counties, but makes no provision for primaries for the nomination of state officers. The Dickinson bill provides for primaries for the nomination of governor and lieutenant governor.

The Mystery of a Trunk.

Chicago, April 13.—Secret service operatives are said to be making an effort to find a mysterious trunk, alleged to be missing, and wanted in connection with the federal jury investigation of the packing industry. Six other trunks of a numbered series have been seized, but the federal officials fear that unless the seventh is recovered valuable information may be lost. The six trunks were taken from safety deposit vaults in the First national bank building.

Scores of Passengers Were Injured.

Vicksburg, Miss., April 13.—A Yazoo & Mississippi Valley passenger train southbound was ditched near Hardee station, 16 miles north of here, early this morning. Reports state that 67 passengers were injured. It is reported that the entire passenger train rolled down an embankment.

A Tragedy in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—Harry North, aged 49, is under arrest, charged with murder and his wife is dead as the result of a shooting which occurred last night at the rooms occupied by the couple.

His Ambition Quenched.

"Some day you may be president of the United States," said the patronizing person.

"I hardly think so," answered the small boy with spectacles. "My parents would never consent to my standing out of doors on a March day to be inaugurated."—Chicago Journal.

In the Spring.

Lowndes, Mo., April 4th.—Mrs. H. C. Harty, of this place, says:

"For years I was in very bad health. Every spring I would get so low that I was unable to do my own work. I seemed to be worse in the spring than any other time of the year. I was very weak and miserable and had much pain in my back and head. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised last spring and began treatment of them and they have certainly done me more good than anything I have ever used.

"I was all right last spring and felt better than I have for over ten years. I am fifty years of age and am stronger to-day than I have been for many years and I give Dodd's Kidney Pills credit for the wonderful improvement."

The statement of Mrs. Harty is only one of a great many where Dodd's Kidney Pills have proven themselves to be the very best spring medicine. They are unsurpassed as a tonic and are the only medicine used in thousands of families.

ITCHING SCALP HUMOUR.

Suffered Tortures Until Cured by Cuticura — Scratched Day and Night.

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered tortures from the itching. I was scratching all day and night, and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of the ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me. Now my head is entirely clear and my hair is growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since, and shall never be without it. (Signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J."

The Best Shampoo for the Hair.

Many shampoos are recommended for the hair as egg, bicarbonate of soda, ammonia, etc. While these may be good their indiscriminate use is injurious. The only thing that can be prescribed for all is good, pure soap and plenty of water. Use Ivory Soap and dissolve it in the water instead of rubbing on the hair.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use

Lion Coffee,

the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and clean as when it left our factory.

BELFRY IN FIR TREE

OLDEST AS WELL AS ODDEST IN UNITED STATES.

Situated in Seven-Century-Old Bit of Timber, Eight Feet Thick, That Forms Spire of a Church at Tacoma, Wash.

Tacoma, Wash.—The oldest belfry in the United States and one of the oldest church towers in the world, is the spire of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, in the outskirts of this city.

This church supplies also what is perhaps the first case on record in which a congregation selected a belfry and built the rest of the church around it. Although the spire is made entirely of wood, it is now 700 years old, and will probably be standing when many comparatively new iron and steel belfries have been razed.

Forty years ago the pioneers of Tacoma organized a church society. They selected a site for their place of worship in a forest of Douglas fir trees that skirted the shore of Puget sound and stretched inward for many miles. Out of these immense, shaggy-barked trees that towered upward for 200 feet without a branch below the upper half, they chose one eight feet in diameter to serve as the steeple.

When the branch bearing portion of the tree had been cut away to prevent the falling of limbs in case of a storm, there was left a bare trunk nearly 100 feet high. Beside it there was built a plain little structure. The bell was fastened to the tree and the little church, with its enduring steeple, was complete.

In later years the women of the congregation planted English ivy at the base of the tree, which in time not only shrouded the steeple in a thick green cloak, but crept through the church windows until finally the inner walls and ceiling were covered. When the roof had become moss grown St. Peter's formed a picture of sylvan beauty more appreciated by the artists who soon came to know it than by the little congregation itself.

OLDEST BELFRY IN AMERICA.
(Situated in Tree That Forms the Spire of a Washington Church.)

The ivy covering of the steeple was so thick that for years the tunes of the bell scarcely penetrated through the leafy blanket. Recently the hindering foliage has been cut away, and the belfry has again become useful as well as ornamental.

The rector of St. Peter's, known to the fishermen as Capt. Stubbs, the sky pilot, spends most of his time in a launch on the sound ministering to his flock, which is composed largely of fishermen. He is a little English dominie with strict ideas on the Sunday observance.

Not long ago the boatmen among whom he labored held a Sunday regatta in sight of the church, the proceeds to be used for the purchase of a new launch for Capt. Stubbs. When the committee handed over an ample sum Capt. Stubbs declined it, at the same time delivering a little lecture on Sunday regattas which put an end to them. Then he set to work and built a launch himself and went about his pastoral duties with more vigor than before.

Although St. Peter's was at one time in the heart of the village of Tacoma, unfriendly Siwash Indians manifested such strong disapproval of churchgoing pioneers that a trusty shotgun came to be regarded as necessary to the church service as the Bible and hymn book.

To-day the hostile Indians have disappeared, and even the city of Tacoma itself seems to have abandoned the church with its ancient tower. It is surrounded by a few little dwellings, occupying the section of Tacoma known as Old Town. The business part of Tacoma is three miles away, but one of the buildings to which Tacomans point with pride when explaining the superiority of their city over Seattle is St. Peter's church.

The Papal Flag.

The papal flag is comparatively unfamiliar outside of the Eternal city. The war flag of the defunct temporal power of the pope was white, and in its center stood figures of St. Peter and St. Paul, with the cross keys and tiara above them. The flag of the merchant ships owned by the subjects of the states of the church is a curious combination, half yellow and half white, with the design of the cross keys on the white. In the banner used by the crusader king of Jerusalem, Godfrey, the only tinctures introduced were the two metals, gold and silver, five golden crosses being placed upon a silver field. This was done with the intention of making the device unique, as in all other cases it is deemed false heraldry to place metal on metal.

Elevator in the Vatican.

A new improvement has just been installed in the Vatican palace at Rome in the shape of an electric elevator of the latest pattern. The pope is to bless the new elevator before it is put into use.

LONG QUEST SUCCESSFUL

The Body of Admiral Paul Jones Is Found After Lying 100 Years in a Paris Cemetery.

Paris, April 15.—Ambassador Porter cabled to Washington last night announcing the successful results of his long search for the body of Paul Jones. The body is in a good state of preservation considering that the interment took place over 100 years ago.

The circumstances leading to the final discovery of the body are particularly interesting. Gen. Porter has conducted the search for five years and when congress recently took no action upon the president's recommendation for the expenses incident to the search, the ambassador continued the extensive labors at his own expense. A large force of workmen has been engaged night and day tunneling and cross-tunneling the old St. Louis cemetery. This constituted a huge operation, embracing nearly a block covered with buildings and requiring a system of subterranean mining.

Hundreds of wooden caskets were found, but not until Wednesday were unearthed four leaden caskets which gave promise of containing the body of the admiral. Three of them bore plates designating the names of the deceased. The fourth showed superior solidity of workmanship. No plate was found on this casket and it is supposed it was removed when another coffin was superimposed on it. The body was found to be well preserved, owing to its being immersed in alcohol. It was wrapped in a sheet, with a packing of straw and hay. Those present were immediately struck by the resemblance of the head to that on the medallions and busts of the admiral.

A CRISIS IS NEAR AT HAND

War of the Masses Against the Classes in Russia Is Likely to Begin on May Day.

St. Petersburg, April 15.—Developments point to a crisis in the present agitation among the workmen of the cities and the peasants in the country on May day and appeals are pouring in from all quarters of Russia for military protection. The St. Petersburg workmen are preparing a great demonstration. Arms and bombs in large quantities have been smuggled in and bloodshed is feared. All the prominent agitators are being arrested or have already been sent back to the villages from which they originally came.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, April 15.—Disturbances here are feared during the Easter holidays.

Fresh strikes are reported at Lodz, Russian Poland, where the situation is causing much uneasiness.

Libau, April 15.—The dock laborers here have struck and the loading of grain has been suspended. Barn burning in many districts continues.

Tiflis, April 15.—Strikers cut the telegraph wires at the Elizabethpol station and a number of trains have been held up.

London, April 15.—No news throwing light on the movement of the fleets of Vice Admirals Rojestvensky and Togo have been received here, but according to a statement made by one of the doctors on board the Russian hospital ship Orel, at Saigon, the ships of the Baltic squadron were going to Vladivostok.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Good News Comes from Almost Every Branch of Industry.

New York, April 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Good news still predominates in trade and industry. Easter business is of large volume, dry goods, clothing, footwear and all lines of wearing apparel reporting an unusually good demand, and shipping departments are taxed to their full capacity in many cases. The country as a whole is experiencing more settled weather, which is reflected in a better retail distribution of merchandise. Jobbing trade in goods for fall delivery is broadening and there is more inclination to prepare for the future.

Manufacturers report less idle machinery, the iron and steel industry leading with an unprecedented output of pig iron, yet consumption is also above all records, for there is no accumulation at the furnaces. Textile mills are also well engaged and forwardings of footwear from Boston make favorable comparisons with every year except 1900.

Failures this week numbered 214 in the United States, against 225 last year, and 20 in Canada, compared with 16 a year ago.

Excitement in Havana.

Havana,, April 15.—Great excitement has been caused in political circles here over the forcible seizure by six nationalist congressmen of papers covering 50 allegations of improper acts by Havana councilmen and city officials. The incident is the outcome of strife between members of the moderate party, of which President Palma and his cabinet ministers are members, and the nationalists, who control the city and provincial government.

Explosion Probably Fatal to Four.

Rochester, N. Y., April 15.—Four men were perhaps fatally burned and a fifth seriously in a gasoline lamp explosion yesterday in a building under construction here.

A $300,000 Fire Loss.

Springvale, Me., April 15.—The greater portion of the business section of Springvale, together with many dwellings was destroyed by fire Friday, entailing a loss estimated at $300,000. In all 35 buildings were burned. No lives were lost.

Roosevelt in Colorado.

Trinidad, Col., April 15.—Seven thousand people, including 2,000 school children waving small flags, greeted President Roosevelt yesterday with cheers. A number of Rough Riders acted as a guard of honor to the president.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, April 15, 1905.

Editor Press:—

"While the carping critics carp," as the President is fond of saying, the administration as daily demonstrating, in a quiet and unobstructive manner, the benefits which this country can, and has, and will continue to bestow on the Philippines, not out of pure philanthropy, of course, but as a result of a determination to deal fairly with "the little brown man" and because of the long experience and superior wisdom of the United States. The experience which the American colonies, the early Federation and the infant Republic gained at high cost, the little Filipino is profiting by now. In time he will enjoy all the prosperity of this country and will not have paid half the price, no, not a tithe of that which the sturdy American was compelled to pay before he knew as much about government and economics as he does now.

For the first time in their history the Phillippines enjoy a stable currency, on the metric system, and they have made money acquiring it. Under the fatherly guidance of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, which direct all things Philippine bonds were issued to maintain the parity between the Philipino coinage and gold and the premium on these bonds has amounted to from $1.18 to $2.51 cents on each $100 of every issue. As the first two issues were refunded, the premium was nearly doubled so that the entire transaction has itself proved very profitable. These bonds were issued to purchase the Friars lands which will now be opened to private settlement. Bonds were issued to raise the purchase price on these lands and on the total issue of $7,000,000 the premium was $7.57 on every $100. When the lands are sold to private parties, in small areas, the purchase price will be aggregated to pay off the bonds and it is probable that the purchase price will considerably exceed the total bond issue. The last issue of Philippine bonds, made on March 10, amounted to $2,500,000 was many times over subscribed and brought the highest recorded premium, $9.06 on every $100. The proceeds of this issue will be devoted to such public improvements as port and harbor works, bridges, school houses, court houses, penal institutions, etc.

Not only has the Philippine government been able to sell its bonds at a premium, because, of course, of the credit of the United States, and in marked contrast with those little Republics in South America, for instance where the money lenders exact ruinous discounts, but now that the money is in the Philippine treasury it will be expended under the supervision of the best men this country can afford men whose long experience in contracting for public improvements will insure to the Philipinos the full value of every dollar of public funds expended. This affords another sharp contrast to the usual course followed in new and weak Republics.

President Lincoln Hulley.

Formerly of Bucknell, Writes About John B. Stetson University, Deland, Florida.

Florida is a land of blue skies, singing birds, beautiful flowers and soft breezes the whole year round. Hundreds of thousands of people stream into Florida from the North to spend the winter. The best thing about Florida is its climate. Next, its fine development. People North little realize that the University of Chicago is located in Florida. The John B, Stetson University of DeLand, Florida, is organically affiliated with the University of Chicago. Its graduates receive Chicago degrees. Stetson has four Colleges and five schools, in 14 buildings with a Faculty of 48, the Faculty holding degrees from Chicago, Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Columbia, the U. of P., Bryn Mawr, Bucknell, Michigan, Dennison, Utrecht Holland and other Universities. It has separate and distinct colleges of Liberal Arts, Technology, Law and Business. It has professional schools for Music, for Art and Normal and Practice work, an Academy which prepares for Chicago. Many people do dot realize that a change has come over the South—that educational interests are booming. Stetson has a third of a million dollars in buildings and equipment, a quarter of a million in endowment, an endowed library, a beautiful auditorium, a ten thousand dollar pipe organ, a gymnasium complete, an enclosed athletic field with track, diamond, gridiron and tennis courts. five great laboratories, several large museums, a number of technological shops, electric lights, electric bells, steam heat, cement walks, shell roads, avenues. spacious campus, shrubbery and trees. It is the biggest educational proposition south of Johns Hopkins. A Pennsylvania citizen, John B. Stetson, the wealthy hat manufacturer of Philadelphia, has given it numerous buildings, large endowment and constant personal backing.

Letter to Frank Pearsall.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: Here's something every painter and builder ought to know.

Mr. J. J. Hall, Sheffield, Pa., painted two houses, 5 years ago, lead and oil; took 40 gallons. Last year, he painted Devoe; bought 40 gallons had 10 left.

He is one of thousands. The knowledge is getting about pretty generally; that Devoe goes further than anything else.

Have you found it out in your own experience?

How much further?

Suppose a job amounts to 10,000 square feet; how much less Devoe could you buy?

Is it as easy to paint?. Does it cost any more or less to put on by the gallon than anything else? how much?

If it costs no more to put-on Devoe by the gallon. it costs less by the foot, you know; for the gallon does more feet. How much less, do you find it, for wages?

Lasts say, twice as long; that is the owner's gain; but perhaps you reckon it yours; some do. The time, when that come-in, is when he gives-out the next job.

Who gets it?

Yours truly

WHY not have your mouth placed in a healthy condition?
To-day the practioner of medicine recognizes that a clean condition of the mouth of his patients is absolutely essential to their health and welfare; that there is remarkable immunity from disease in both adults and children who have clean, healthy mouths; that 75 per cent of antial troubles are of dental origin; that 90 per cent of neuralgias are the result of imperfectly inserted metallic fillings, impacted wisdom teeth or roots covered by the gums.
The satisfaction and comfort derived from a clean mouth is worth far more than the time and money expended in its production.

HE'S GOING TO.

He hasn't done much as yet,
In fact, he hasn't had a chance—
He's really tring hard to get
In a position to advance;
He knows he ought to go to school,
'Twould be the best thing he could do—
But wait awhile and just keep cool—
He's going to.

He knows his ways are hardly right;
In truth, they cause him some regret.
He's going to drop the boys to-night,
He's making his last cigarette;
He knows he ought to be a man,
He'd be much better so, that's true;
But don't get hasty with your plan—
He's going to.

Week follows week, time onward flies;
Month follows month, the spring is gone
The seasons change and summer dies,
While chilly autumn passes on.
The year is growing late and chill,
There's much our old friend ought to do,
But wait awhile and just keep still—
He's going to.

At last—ah, you can guess the last,
'Tis such as you have heard before;
The somber autumn long since passed,
The heavy winter well nigh o'er.
His sun of life is nearly set,
His years, perhaps his days, are few;
He ought to mend, but don't you fret,
He's going to.

D'ri and I

By IRVING BACHELLER

Author of "Eben Holden," "Darrel of the Blessed Isles," Etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by Lothrop Publishing Company.)

CHAPTER XX.—CONTINUED.

It was a fine day, and a ride to remember. We had a warm sun, a clear sky, and now and then we could feel the soft feet of the south wind romping over us in the river way. Here and there a swallow came coasting to the ripples, sprinkling the holy water of delight upon us, or a crow's shadow plowed silently across our bows. It thrilled me to go cantering beside the noisy Rapides du Plats or the wild-footed Galloup, two troops of water hurrying to the mighty battles of the sea. We mounted reeling knolls, and coasted over whirling dips, and rushed to boiling levels, and jumped foamy ridges, and went galloping in the rush and tumble of long slopes.

"Let 'er rip!" I could hear D'ri shouting, once in a while, as he flashed up ahead of me. "Let 'er rip! Consarn 'er pictur'!"

He gave a great yell of triumph as we slowed in a long stretch of still, broad water. "Judas Priest!" said he, as I came alongside, "thet air 's rougher 'n the bog trail."

We came to Paleyville with time only for a bite of luncheon before dark. We could see no sign of life on the island or the "Canuck shore" as we turned our bows to the south channel. That evening the innkeeper sat with us under a creaking sign, our chairs tilted to the tavern-side.

D'ri was making a moose-horn of birch-bark as he smoked thoughtfully. When he had finished, he raised it to his lips and moved the flaring end in a wide circle as he blew a blast that rang miles away in the far forest.

"Ef we heppen t' git separated in any way, shape er manner 'cept one," said he, as he slung it over his shoulder with a string, "ye 'll know purty nigh where I be when ye hear thet air thing."

"You said, 'in any way, shape er manner 'cept one,'" I quoted. "What do you mean by that?"

My friend expectorated, looking off into the night soberly a moment.

"Guess I did n't mean nuthin'," said he, presently. "When I set out t' say suthin', don't never know where I 'm goin' t' land. Good deal luk settin' sail without a compass. Thet 's one reason I don't never say much 'fore women."

Our good host hurried the lagging hours with many a tale of the river and that island we were soon to visit, once the refuge of Tadusac, the old river pirate, so he told us, with a cave now haunted by some ghost. We started for the shore near ten o'clock, the innkeeper leading us with a lantern, its light flickering in a west wind. The sky was cloudy, the night dark. Our host lent us the lantern, kindly offering to build a bonfire on the beach at 11, to light us home.

"Careful, boys," said the innkeeper, as we got aboard. "Aim straight fer th' head o' th' island. Can't ye see it—right ever yer heads there? 'Member, they 's awful rough water below."

We pushed off, D'ri leading. I could see nothing of the island, but D'ri had better eyes, and kept calling me as he went ahead. After a few strokes of the paddle I could see on the dark sky the darker mass of tree-tops.

"Better light up," I suggested. We were now close in.

"Hush!" he hissed. Then, as I came up to him, he went on, whispering: "'T ain't bes' t' mek no noise here. Don' know none tew much 'bout this here business. Don' cal'late we 're goin' t' hev any trouble, but if we dew—Hark!"

We had both heard a stir in the bushes, and stuck our paddles in the sand, listening. After a little silence I heard D'ri get up and step stealthily into the water and buckle on his sword. Then I could hear him sinking the canoe and shoving her anchor deep into the sand. He did it with no noise that, 50 feet away, could have been distinguished from that of the ever-murmuring waters. In a moment he came and held my canoe, while I also took up my trusty blade, stepping out of the canoe into the shallow water. Then he shoved her off a little, and sank her beside the other. I knew not his purpose, and made no question of it, following him as he strode the shore with measured paces, the lantern upon his arm. Then presently he stuck his paddle into the bushes, and mine beside it. We were near the head of the island, walking on a reedy strip of soft earth at the river margin. After a few paces we halted to listen, but heard only the voice of the water and the murmur of pines. Then we pushed through a thicket of small fir trees to where we groped along in utter darkness among the big tree trunks on a muffle-footing. After a moment or so we got a spray of light. We halted, peering at the glow that now sprinkled out through many a pinhole aperture in a fairy lattice of pine needles.

My heart was beating loudly, for there was the promised lantern. Was I not soon to see the brighter light of those dear faces? It was all the kind of thing I enjoyed then—the atmosphere of peril and romance—wild youth that I was. It is a pity, God knows, I had so little consideration for old D'ri; but he loved me, and—well, he himself had some pleasure in excitement.

We halted for only a moment, pushing boldly through a thicket of young pines into the light. A lantern hung on the bough of a tall tree, and beneath it was a wide opening well carpeted with moss and needles. We peered off into the gloom, but saw nothing.

D'ri blew out a thoughtful breath, looking up into the air coolly, as he filled his pipe.

"Consarned if ever I wanted t' have a smoke s' bad 'n all my born days," he remarked.

Then he moved his holster, turned his scabbard, and sat down quietly, puffing his pipe with some look of weariness and reflection. We were sitting there less than five minutes when we heard a footfall near by; then suddenly two men strode up to us in the dim light. I recognized at once the easy step, the long, lithe figure, of his lordship in the dress of a citizen, saving sword and pistols.

"Ah, good evening, gentlemen," said he, quietly. "How are you?"

"Better than—than when we saw you last," I answered.

D'ri had not moved; he looked at me with a sympathetic smile.

"I presume," said his lordship, in that familiar, lazy tone, as he lighted a cigar, "there was—ah—good room for improvement, was there not?"

"Abundant," said I, thoughtfully. "You were not in the best of health yourself that evening."

"True," said he; "I—I was in bad fettle and worse luck."

"How are the ladies?"

"Quite well," said he, blowing a long puff.

"Ready to deliver them?" I inquired.

"Presently," said he. "There are—some formalities."

"Which are—?" I added quickly.

"A trifle of expenses and a condition," said he, lazily.

"How much, and what?" I inquired, as D'ri turned his ear.

"One thousand pounds," said his lordship, quickly. "Not a penny more than this matter has cost me and his majesty."

"What else?" said I.

"This man," he answered calmly, with a little gesture aimed at D'ri.

My friend rose, struck his palm with the pipe-bowl, and put up his knife.

"Ef ye 're goin' t' tek me," said he, "better begin right off, er ye won't hev time 'fore breakfust."

Then he clapped the moose-horn to his lips and blew a mighty blast. It made the two men jump and set the near thicket reeling. The weird baritone went off moaning in the far wastes of timber. Its rush of echoes had begun. I put my hand to my sabre, for there in the edge of the gloom I saw a thing that stirred me to the marrow. The low firs were moving toward us, root and branch, their twigs falling. Gods of war! it made my hair stand for a jiffy to see the very brush take feet and legs. On sea or land I never saw a thing that gave me so odd a feeling. We stood for a breath or two, then started back, our sabres flashing; for, as the twigs fell, we saw they had been decorating a squad of the British. They came on. I struck at the lantern, but too late, for his lordship had swung it away. He stumbled, going to his knees; the lantern hit the earth and went out. I had seen the squad break, running each way, to surround us. D'ri grabbed my hand as the dark fell, and we went plunging through the little pines, hitting a man heavily, who fell grunting. We had begun to hear the rattle of boats, a shouting, and quick steps on the shore. We crouched a moment. D'ri blew the moose-horn, pulling me aside with him quickly after the blast. Lights were now flashing near. I could see little hope for us, and D'ri, I thought, had gone crazy. He ran at the oncomers, yelling, "Hey Rube!" at the top of his lungs. I lay low in the brush a moment. They rushed by me, D'ri in the fore with fending sabre. A tawny hound was running in the lead, his nose down, baying loudly. Then I saw the truth, and made after them with all the speed of my legs. They hustled over the ridge, their lights flashing under. For a jiffy I could see only, here and there, a leaping glow in the tree-tops. I rushed on, passing one who had tumbled headlong. The lights below me scattered quickly and stopped. I heard a great yelling, a roar of muskets, and a clash of swords. A hush fell on them as I came near. Then I heard a voice that thrilled me.

"Your sword, sir!" it commanded.

"Stop," said I, sharply, coming near.

There stood my father in the lantern-light, his sword drawn, his gray hair stirring in the breeze. Before him was my old adversary, his lordship, sword in hand. Near by the squad of

THERE STOOD MY FATHER IN THE LANTERN LIGHT, HIS SWORD DRAWN.

British, now surrounded, were giving up their arms. They had backed to the river's edge; I could hear it lapping their heels. His lordship sneered, looking at the veteran who stood in a gray frock of homespun, for all the world, I fancy, like one of those old yeomen who fought with Cromwell.

"Your sword, sir," my father repeated.

"Pardon me," said the young man, with a fascinating coolness of manner, "but I shall have to trouble you—"

He hesitated, feeling his blade.

"How?" said my father.

"To fight for it," said his lordship, quietly.

"Surrender—fool!" my father answered. "You cannot escape."

"Tut, tut!" said his lordship. "I never heard so poor a compliment. Come in reach, and I shall make you think better of me."

"Give up your sword."

"After my life, then my sword," said he, with a quick thrust.

Before I could take a step, their swords were clashing in deadly combat. I rushed up to break in upon them, but the air was full of steel, and then my father needed no help. He was driving his man with fiery vigor. I had never seen him fight; all I had seen of his power had been mere play.

It was grand to see the old man fighting as if, for a moment, his youth had come back to him. I knew it could not go far. His fire would burn out quickly; then the blade of the young Britisher, tireless and quick as I knew it to be, would let his blood before my very eyes. What to do I knew not. Again I came up to them; but my father warned me off hotly. He was fighting with terrific energy. I swear to you that in half a minute he had broken the sword of his lordship, who took to the water, swimming for his life. I leaped in, catching him half over the eddy, where we fought like madmen, striking in the air and bumping on the bottom. We were both near drowned when D'ri swam out and gave me his belt-end, hauling us in.

I got to my feet soon. My father came up to me, and wiped a cut on my forehead.

"Damn you, my boy!" said he. "Don't ever interfere with me in a matter of that kind. You might have been hurt."

We searched the island, high and low, for the ladies, but with no success. Then we marched our prisoners to the south channel, where a bateau—the same that brought us help—had been waiting. One of our men had been shot in the shoulder, another gored in the hip with a bayonet and we left a young Briton dying on the shore. We took our prisoners to Paleyville, and locked them overnight in the blockhouse.

The channel was lighted by a big bonfire on the south bank, as we came over. Its flames went high, and made a great sloping volcano of light in the darkness.

After the posting of the guard, some gathered about my father and began to cheer him. It nettled the veteran. He would take no honor for his defeat of the clever man, claiming the latter had no chance to fight.

"He had no foot-room with the boy one side and D'ri t' other," said he. "I had only to drive him back."

My father and the innkeeper and D'ri and I sat awhile, smoking, in the warm glow of the bonfire.

"You're a long-headed man," said I, turning to my comrade.

"Kind o' thought they 'd be trouble," said D'ri. "So I tuk 'n ast yer father t' come over nossbarz with hef a dozen good men. They got three more et the tavern here, an' lay off 'n thet air bateau, waitin' fer the moose call. I cal'lated I did n't want no more slidin' over there 'n Canady."

After a little snicker, he added: "Hed all t' wus good fer me the las' time. 'S a leetle tew swift."

"Gets rather scary when you see the bushes walk," I suggested.

"Seen what wus up 'fore ever they med a move," said D'ri. "Them air bushes did n't look jest es nat'ral es they 'd orter. Bet ye they 're some o' them bushwhackers o' Fitzgibbon. Got loops all over their uniforms, so ye c'u'd stick 'em full o' boughs. Jerushy! never see nuthin' s' joemightful cur'us 'n all my born days—never." He stopped a breath, and then added: "Could n't be nuthin' cur'user 'n thet."

CHAPTER XXI.

We hired team and wagon of the innkeeper, and a man to paddle up-river and return with the horses.

I had a brief talk with our tall prisoner while they were making ready.

"A word of business, your lordship," I said as he came out, yawning, with the guard.

"Ah, well," said he, with a shiver, "I hope it is not so cold as the air."

"It is hopeful; it is cheering," was my answer.

"And the topic?"

"An exchange—for the ladies."

He thought a moment, slapping the dust off him with a glove.

"This kind of thing is hard on the trousers," he remarked carelessly. "I will consider; I think it could be arranged. Meanwhile, I give you my word of honor, you need have no worry."

We were off at daybreak with our prisoners; there were six of them in all. We put a fold of linen over the eyes of each, and roped them all together, so that they could sit or stand, as might please them, in the wagon-box.

"It's barbarity," said his lordship, as we put on the fold. "You Yankees never knew how to treat a prisoner."

"Till you learnt us," said D'ri, quickly. "Could n't never fergit thet lesson. Ef I hed my way 'bout you, I 'd haul ye up t' th' top o' thet air dead pine over yender, 'n' let ye slide down."

"Rather too steep, I should say," said his lordship, wearily.

"Ye would n't need no grease," said D'ri, with a chuckle.

We were four days going to the harbor. My father and his men came with us, and he told us many a tale, that journey, of his adventures in the old war. We kept our promise, turning over the prisoners a little before sundown of the 16th. Each was given a great room and every possible comfort. I arranged soon for the release of all on the safe return of the ladies.

In the evening of the 17th his lordship sent for me. He was a bit nervous, and desired a conference with the general and me. De Chaumont had been over to the headquarters that day in urgent counsel. He was weary of delay and planning an appeal to the French government. Gen. Brown was prepared to give the matter all furtherance in his power and sent quickly for the Englishman. They brought him over at nine o'clock. We uncovered his eyes and locked the door, and "gave him a crack at the old Madeira," as they used to say, and made him as comfortable as might be at the cheery fireside of the general.

"I've been thinking," said his lordship, after a drink and a word of courtesy. I never saw a man of better breeding or more courage, I am free to say. "You may not agree it is possible, but anyhow, I have been trying to think. You have been decent to me. I don't believe you are such a bad lot, after all; and while I should be sorry to have you think me tired of your hospitality, I desire to hasten our plans a little. I propose an exchange of—of—"

He hesitated, whipping the ashes off his cigar.

"Well—first of confidence," he went on. "I will take your word if you will take mine."

"In what matter?" the general inquired.

"That of the ladies and their relief," said he. "A little confidence will—will—"

"Grease the wheels of progress?" the general suggested, smiling.

"Quite so," he answered lazily. "To begin with, they are not 30 miles away, if I am correct in my judgment of this locality."

There was a moment of silence.

"My dear sir," he went on presently, "this ground is quite familiar to me. I slept in this very chamber long ago. But that is not here nor there. Day after to-morrow, a little before midnight, the ladies will be riding on the shore pike. You could meet them and bring them out to a schooner, I suppose—if—"

He stopped again, puffing thoughtfully.

"If we could agree," he went on. "Now this would be my view of it: You let me send a messenger for the ladies. You would have to take them by force somehow; but, you know, I could make it easy—arrange the time and place, no house near, no soldiers, no resistance but that of the driver, who should not share our confidence—no danger. You take them to the boats and bring them over; but, first—"

Dyspepsia of Women

ABSOLUTELY NEEDLESS AGONY

Caused by Uterine Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects also.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

"For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing that I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DYSPEPSIA YIELDS

A NINE YEARS' VICTIM FINDS A REMEDY THAT CURES.

For Two Years Too Weak to Work—A Dozen Doctors Had Tried to Check Disease. Treatment That Succeeded.

All sufferers from weakness or disorders of the digestive organs will read with lively interest the story of the complete recovery of Mrs. Nettlie Darvoux from chronic dyspepsia which was thought to be incurable.

"To be ailing for nine years is not a very pleasant experience," said Mrs. Darvoux, when asked for some account of her illness. "For two years I was critically ill and could not attend to my household duties, and at one time I was so weak and miserable that I could not even walk. My trouble was chronic dyspepsia. I became extremely thin and had a sallow complexion. I had no appetite and could not take any food without suffering great distress."

"Did you have a physician?"

"Yes, I took medicine from a dozen different doctors, but without getting any benefit whatever."

"How did you get on the track of a cure?"

"A book about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was thrown in our doorway one day. My husband picked it up and read it through carefully. He was so impressed by the statements of those who had been cured by that remedy that he immediately bought three boxes of the pills and insisted on my taking them."

"Did they help you at once?"

"I began to feel better the second day after I started to use the pills and by the time I had taken the three boxes I was entirely well. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can cure even when doctors fail, and they cure thoroughly, for a long time has passed since my restoration to health and I know it is complete and lasting."

The surest way to make sound digestion is to give strength to the organs concerned. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give new vigor to the blood. No other remedy yields such radical results.

Mrs. Darvoux lives at No. 497 Sixth street, Detroit, Mich. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists in every part of the world. Dyspeptics should send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for a new booklet entitled "What to Eat and How to Eat."

Foley's Kidney Cure
makes kidneys and bladder right.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

There are three entirely different kinds of ingredients used in making the three different varieties of baking powders on the market, viz: (1) Mineral-Acid or Alum, (2) Bone-Acid or Phosphate, and (3) Cream of Tartar made from grapes. It is important, from the standpoint of health, to know something about these ingredients, and which kind is used in your baking powder.

(1) Mineral-Acid, or Alum, is made from a kind of clay. This is mixed with diluted oil of vitriol and from this solution a product is obtained which is alum. Alum is cheap; costs about two cents a pound, and baking powder made with this Mineral-Acid sells from 10 to 25c. a pound.

(2) Bone-Acid, or Phosphate, is the basis of phosphate baking powders and the process is fully described in the patents issued to a large manufacturer of a phosphate powder. The U. S. Patent Office Report gives a full and exact description, but the following extract is enough:

"Burned bones, after being ground, are put into freshly diluted oil of vitriol and with continual stirring and in the following proportion," etc.

From this Bone-Acid phosphate baking powders are made; such powders sell from 20 to 30 cents a pound.

(3) Cream of Tartar exists in all ripe grapes, and flows with the juice from the press in the manufacture of wine. After the wine is drawn off the tartar is scraped from the cask, boiled with water, and crystals of Cream of Tartar, white and very pure, separate and are collected. It differs in no respect from the form in which it originally existed in the grape. Cream of Tartar, then, while the most expensive, is the only ingredient that should be used in a baking powder to act upon the soda, as its wholesomeness is beyond question. Cream of Tartar baking powders sell at about 40 to 50 cents a pound.

Such are the facts, and every one, careful of the health of the family, should remember this rule:—Baking powders selling from 10 to 25 cents a pound are made of Mineral-Acids; those selling from 20 to 30 cents of Bone-Acid; and those from 40 to 50 cents of Cream of Tartar made from grapes.

Mrs. S. W. Marine, of Colorado Springs, Began to Fear the Worst—Doan's Kidney Pills Saved Her.

Mrs. Sarah Marine, of 428 St. Urain street, Colorado Springs, Col., writes:

"I suffered for three years with severe backache. The doctors told me my kidneys were affected and prescribed medicines for me, but I found that it was only a waste of time and money to take them, and began to fear that I would never get well. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. Within a week after I began using them I was so much better that I decided to keep up the treatment, and when I had used a little over two boxes I was entirely well. I have now enjoyed the best of health for more than four months, and words can but poorly express my gratitude."

MARY MAGDALENE AND THE RISEN CHRIST.

Resurrection of a Forlorn Hope

By WILLIS SCOTT

CLARISSA was a poor, lone little seamstress. Her pale, thin cheeks, and stooping shoulders and needle-pricked fingers told of long hours spent over the sewing table. It was so hard to make even a living. Clarissa was all alone in the world.

One bright ray of hope there was amidst all the gloom. It had flashed into the mind of Clarissa nearly a year before at Easter time, and ever since then it had rested on her like a cheery beacon light of hope. She had chanced one day to pass the fancy goods counter in one of the big department stores, and her quick, hungry eyes had taken in at a glance the dainty display of needlework, and she had noted amongst them the many Easter novelties which ingenuity and deft fingers had devised. She had not time to linger. She must hurry back to her task of plain sewing, for idle moments meant less bread, and perhaps a shortage of rent money and an obdurate landlady. But she had in that brief pause before that counter caught a vision of a new future. She had never done anything but plain sewing, but there had always been the hungering in her soul for the pretty and dainty trifles. She wanted to do something besides that monotonous plain stitching and button-holing, but she never seemed to get the time from the daily tasks. Now, however, a new thought had come to her, "her inspiration," she called it, and day and night since that last Easter vision at the fancy goods counter it had been uppermost in her mind. She would make something for the next Easter. The boldness of the thought made her tremble. But the idea would not down, and though she over and over again told herself that it was foolish, she planned how she would work it out. But what could she do?

One day when passing the markets she noticed a sign: "Eggs, 60 cents per doz." Eggs were a rare luxury to Clarissa. The high price caught her eye at once. It made her gasp to think of the price, and she wondered who could be rich enough to afford them. When she got back to her bare room the thought of eggs at prohibitive prices kept floating before her mind. At that moment a bit of yellow satin caught her eye lying on the table and again "Eggs, 60 cents per doz." floated before her vision. Now, there is not much connection between eggs at 60 cents a dozen and a bit of yellow satin, but, without knowing just why, Clarissa picked up the bright bit of cloth and as she held it in her hands it struck her that it was the exact shade of an egg's yolk. Her deft fingers moved by the thought soon had a puffy round ball made which for all the world looked like an egg's yolk. Why not make the white of the egg and have a fried egg, she thought. With a bit of cotton and a scrap of chiffon she went at it and ere long had lying before her on the table a very fair representation of an egg. As she sat looking at it and wondering what good it was now that it was made, the thought suddenly flashed over her that Easter and eggs were very appropriate, and with the word "Easter" penciled over the egg it would make a very dainty novelty. Here then was the solution of her problem. Here was her opportunity.

The next few days found Clarissa in a fever of nervous anxiety. She went half hungry that she might have the little thus saved for the buying of materials for her eggs. In the course of a few weeks she was able to save enough to get a couple of dozen of the eggs ready to take to the store.

In fear and trembling she sought out the manager of the fancy goods department and half hesitatingly opened the package before him. He seemed interested, and told her she might leave them.

And Clarissa waited, and as opportunity offered she stole by the fancy goods department and looked to see if her precious Easter eggs were still there. One day one was missing and the next day another was gone Then day after day went by and still the eggs rested in their place in the show case. Her heart grew heavier and heavier. The two that were sold would not begin to pay her for the materials she had put into the eggs, and if they were not sold what would she do? It was the day before Easter, and as she went by the counter in the morning after delivering the work which she had sat up most of the night to finish, she saw that all the eggs, save the two which had been sold, were still reposing on the counter.

Her heart, which had been growing heavier each day as she saw her eggs unsold, now sank to the lowest depths and the bright hope which had stirred her heart for weeks seemed dead within her.

It was a dreary Easter for the little seamstress. The weather, as though in sympathy with her drooping spirits and tearful eyes, was dark and chill. The sun had hid his face and the rain pelted at the panes of her one small window in harmony with the impatient and rebellious thoughts which beat within her heart. The hopes of almost a year had been cruelly crushed. The bright vision of something better than the plain sewing which she had been doing for so many years had vanished. The hope of earning a better living was gone. Poor Clarissa!

The longer she brooded over her disappointment the gloomier did the situation appear, and when the clouds lifted outside and a burst of sunshine crept in at the window and fell at her feet she felt it a sort of impudent intrusion. If she could not be bright within she did not want to have it bright about her, and she arose with petulant haste to pull the shade, but at that instant a knock at the door startled her and turned her from her purpose. The knock was repeated ere she could summon courage to open the door, and when she did she could scarce believe her senses, for there stood the manager of the fancy goods department. His smile reassured her as he said:

"Miss Brown, your Easter eggs found a ready sale and if we had had four instead of two dozen we could have sold them. Here are six dollars, your share of the profits of the sales."

Like one in a dream she took the bills in her cold, trembling hands, and looked first at them and then at the manager. She had never before had so much money at one time. It almost seemed as though she was rich. But her reverie was broken by the voice of the manager, who was saying something about needing more help in his department, and would she consider an offer. The sunlight dancing upon the floor seemed to nod its approval, the glad sunshine she had but a moment before wanted to shut from her vision. But now it brought a new message to her heart. The tomb of her heart where she thought she had locked a dead hope burst open and forth sprang a better and brighter self. A new life and new hope lay before her, and to the question of the manager, again repeated while the bewildered girl strove to collect her thoughts, she at last managed to answer yes. Clarissa had had a resurrection day.

Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble

I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. A. L. WALKER, 331 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

SPRING.

For the PRESS

Trot out your patent medicines.
And bring around your pills;
For Spring is now approaching,
With alternate sweats and chills.

The hen has called the strike off,
Which makes us very glad,
We'll have some eggs for Easter,
If they are a little bad.

The little calves are bleating,
And on their rope they jerk,
We will dine upon veal cutlets,
Instead of old salt pork.

The little Japs are fighting,
In a way that's really charming,
The anxious Russians hurry home,
To take up spring farming.

Here's a little word of warning,
To the sickly and the pale,
Hang on to your old flannels,
If they are a little stale.

Good Times Everywhere.

With the opening of the business year—April 1st is generally regarded as such—comes the most encouraging reports from all over the country as to business conditions. In Harrisburg business was never better and from all branches of trade comes the answers, "We are active, have nothing to complain of and the outlook is very good." Others say, "We expect good business for four years at least, and every indication points to a continuation of the prosperity."

Industrial plants are running full capacity, and many on double turns, and wages generally are satisfactory. In mercantile circles there is increased activity, and there is satisfaction on every hand.

Bradstreet says that reports from 108 cities show a building expenditure during the year of $455,000,000, and thinks it will total with other cities not reported to $600,000,000. In railway building orders have been given for equipement to the amount of $200,000,000, and aggregate expenditure for material and labor close to $800,000,000. Figures such as these are collossal, and can hardly be grasped, but big things are happening in these days of prosperity.

In mercantile circles throughout the country there is an unusual stimulus in dry goods, clothing, shoes and millinery, and the lumber and hardware business is booming. There has been a remarkable demand for steel in the past few months.

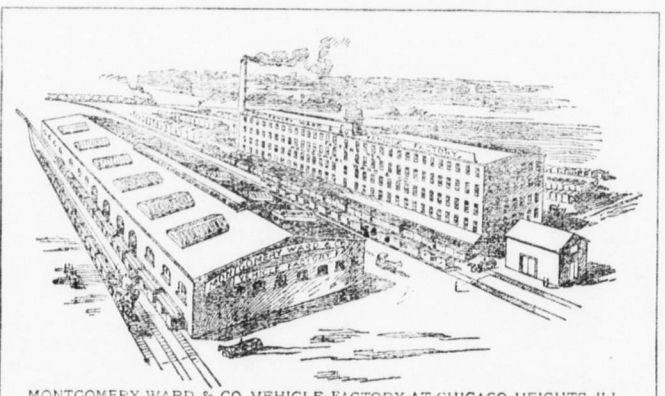
A Personal Letter from Mr. Shaw

When looking for a new factory superintendent two years ago, I visited the three great vehicle centers of the Central West; talked to and investigated the records of thirty men, many of them having charge of some of the largest factories in the country. I found my man. I know that we have one of the very best vehicle factory superintendents in America. He has had twenty years' experience in buggy building. All that time he has been accustomed to making more in wages. This means we have a higher class of mechanics. The result is better quality of work.

We had over 60,000 orders in this department last year. Very busy now, but we have a lot of good, experienced men to help. People are realizing that this is the place to buy vehicles.



MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. VEHICLE FACTORY AT CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILL. (25 miles south of Chicago)

making high grade work. That is our class. I attend personally to the buying of materials; am thoroughly conversant with every kind, size, the weight, grade, strength, finish, price and general construction of every piece of woodwork, hardware, steel, leather, cloth, paint and varnish that goes into our work; have visited and examined the material, and have torn apart the finished work of six or eight of the largest factories; want to say that I am confident we are building a better buggy than these factories ship to the dealer at one-third more than the price we ask you. A fact. Think it over.

Our pay roll, when compared with that of other factories, shows that we are paying more in wages. This means we have a higher class of mechanics. The result is better quality of work.

I know of factories who build practically but one buggy, but have possibly twenty different prices. To explain: Here is their $35.00 buggy; their $40.00 buggy has the same wheels, body, axles, gear, shafts, top, etc., as their $35.00 job, with possibly 50 cents more in little immaterial things; and so forth all the way along the line. We grade our work. We make the same small percentage of profit on a $50.00 job that we do on a $35.00. On high-priced work we are not only giving better quality of material and better finish, but more improvements and little equipments which you do not find on the cheaper rig.

Recently a certain manufacturing concern which builds work for a catalogue house, ordered, through another party, one of our low-priced buggies and had it shipped to their factory for examination. They wanted to know why people were buying Ward's vehicles. Upon receipt of the job it had so many features of the higher priced buggies, such a fine finish, and was so stylish and well proportioned in every way that they concluded we had made a mistake and sent them our highest priced buggy. Imagine what they said! There was no mistake at all. The facts are (and I will stake my reputation upon it) that we are giving our customers stronger and more durable vehicles, better made in every way, easier riding, more stylishly trimmed, better finished and altogether with more lasting qualities for the money than any other buggy concern in the world.

Our vehicle business in 1904 increased 20 per cent; other houses fell behind 30 per cent. We never put a $50 description on a $40 job.

We have purchased material for manufacturing twice as many vehicles in 1905 as in 1904. We paid spot cash for it. We expect great things. Have really put prices upon the finished work that are extraordinarily low when considering the quality. Send us your order and we guarantee to return you good material and good labor in the shape of a good rig.

Send for Our Vehicle Catalogue

The descriptions in our vehicle catalogue are correct. We have the goods to back them up. We know what's under the paint. If you have not received a copy ask for it. Order with this understanding: That if upon receipt you are not satisfied, write us and we will have the job returned, promptly refund your money and pay the expense both ways.

We shall be pleased at any time to have our customers visit our plant, and I, personally, will be glad to answer any questions regarding our work, or to assist you in any way possible in the selection of a job or to quote and purchase for you any special vehicle that we may not catalogue.
